

Are you guys nuts?

Proposing that the elite few, who can not rest for even a moment (the Type A or the just plain noisy, now have permission to gab loudly, distrubing those around them in an already tense environment, is insanity.

Sure, you'll accede to the monied few but how about remembering those of us already crammed into small seats, with smelly or large or indifferent other infrequent travelers with to much/many carry-ons, who only want the trip to be over with as few further interruptions/verbal or mantal assaults/just plain worse service or schedules, as soon as possible.

Don't do it!

If someone can not stay off the phone for the time to get from here to there, TAKE A BUS! OR LIMO OR WHATEVER!!!!
